Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

General secretary Charles G. Titus of the Y. M. C. A. and Mrs. Titus have gone to Topeka, Kas., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Titus's brother, George Cooper, who died there recently. They will return at the end of the week.

J. N. Field, president of the Redlands university at Redlands, Cal., will speak before the young men of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon.
Curd and Mitchell won the handball match played last night in the elimination tournament. They defeated Raynolds and Los Cobos, Mitchell winning from Raynolds by the score of 21 to 20 and 21 to 15. Curd won from Los Cobos in two straight games, scores 21 to 2 and 21 to 12.

Judge Burton Baker has returned from a trip to Arizona on business connected with the treasury department, of which he is special agent at El Paso.

POSTAGE ON TODAY'S HERALD IS FOUR CENTS

Four cents postage is necessary to send the Skyscraper edition of The Herald when it is mailed with the regular edition of today. The complete edition, including the regular and special Skyscraper number, costs 5 cents at the Herald office, making the total cost nine cents, when mailed. When the special edition is mailed without the regular edition, five cents postage must be paid, as it then goes at the book instead of the newspaper rate. Both editions, wrapped and ready for mailing, may be purchased at The Herald office and the copies will be mailed from this office.

School Keeps Flat to Teach Girls To Be Good Housewives

JONES MEMORIAL SCHOOL

GROUP OF FUTURE MODEL WIVES AND HUSBANDS IN JONES MEMORIAL SCHOOL

Class Made to Go Through Routine of Daily Life in Makebelieve House-keeping.

TRAINING "MODEL" HUSBANDS AND WIVES.
To become model husbands men need early training.
Social and club life makes youths better citizens.
Dancing schools keep boys and girls out of the street.
Most east side girls get married at 17.
To marry and work for a man, they think, is a privilege.
Scientific education is improving the home life of thousands.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 12.—"There has been a good deal said and done lately toward the making of model wives out of our girls, but we think it just as important to train the young boys so they may become model husbands."

With this theory to work on Miss M. E. Taylor, night principal, and Miss Ella Wells, day principal, of the Jones Memorial school, in East 73rd street, began teaching the girls and boys of that neighborhood at the early age of 5.
"In this part of New York city," began Miss Taylor, to a correspondent for The Herald, "the population is largely foreign, and to make them good American citizens we have to bring them into our fold before their habits have been formed along other lines. In our day classes both boys and girls are taught the usual studies, and in addition to that various useful occupations.
"In the evening classes, of which I have charge, we aim to give these pupils in an elementary way some preparation for their future occupations in life and what they must face when they leave the school room. That kind of education should develop the mind and character to the utmost.

"Realizing the value of social intercourse, and with the further view of keeping the young boys off the street, we organized a club which meets here every evening in the week. The girls also have a club, but that meets but once a week, on Wednesdays. Every Friday night the boys and girls have a dance that proves a great drawing card.
"The social and club life we provide here until the boys get to be almost 17 years old. We were then confronted with a problem of what to do with them next. We did not want to turn them away after carefully rearing them up to what frequently proves the turning point in the lives of youths.

"To be good husbands and upright citizens, they still needed our help. At this juncture A. M. Burnett, a Wall street broker, came to our aid. He hired three rooms at 431 East 74th street, which he fitted up with athletic apparatus, a piano, a pool table and other attractive features. There the older boys enjoy themselves to their hearts' content, while the influence of our long teaching here is still manifested.
"Most of our young people in this section, you know, get married early. We have the confidence of these youths who are associated with us so long. They usually come to us for advice in regard to their marriage problems. The result is quite gratifying, and fewer unhappy marriages are contracted.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE YELLOW LABEL

All subscribers to The Herald should watch the yellow label pasted on the wrapper or on the first page of their paper. The date printed thereon is the date of expiration of subscription. When a remittance on subscription account is made, this date should be changed. When it is not changed soon after remittance is made, allowing, of course, reasonable time to reach El Paso, the subscriber should immediately call the attention of this office to the oversight. By doing this when the matter is fresh in the minds of all concerned, all further trouble and inconvenience will be avoided.

MAN DISMISSED IN COURT BECAUSE OF AGE

William Murry, charged with being drunk, was arraigned in the police court this morning and dismissed. He stated that he was 65 years of age and on his way from Merkel county to visit his father, who is 98 years old.

Many of our boys are now happily wed and live in model east side flats, as an outcome of this school and club life. Particularly fitted to their needs.
"Our model flat," said Miss Wells, "telling her part of the story, 'teaches the young girls many useful things. Here girls over 14 are trained in the art of housekeeping. Without exception all are most enthusiastic about the work, which proves what a need there is for just this kind of education."
"There are three rooms in the tiny flat, which is the regulation style of apartment in this part of the city. The furnishings are made to conform as nearly as possible to what are found in the actual living quarters.
"A class of six girls will enter the flat in charge of an instructor and then go through as closely as possible the routine of daily life. Two members of the class play husband and wife to make it more realistic and give a zest to the make believe housekeeping.
"One girl will take charge of the kitchen work, cooking the meals. Another will clean the dining room, while a third acts as chambermaid. All are taught the value of fresh air. Everything in the flat is given a thorough airing daily. In this way valuable preventive measures are inculcated toward the eliminating of tuberculosis, which is so prevalent in this neighborhood.
"Here also the economy of stretching the family resources is taught. The children are shown how to accomplish much with little. Dry goods boxes, with some ingenuity and paint, are made to do as dish closets. Now, when food-stuffs are so high in price, knowledge how to save in every way in the cooking is a most important part of the tuition.
"These girls start in at 14, and it is none too soon, for most of them are married at 17. It seems as though nothing can deter them from it," declared Miss Wells, laughingly. "Many of them seem to think it a privilege to marry a man and then work for him. Whenever I question one of the girls on her haste to wed she usually regards me with wonder.
"Large families, of four and more children, are the rule. Many of the men under the present order of things sit at home while their wives toil to support them. By this training that we give here to the boys and girls we hope to change this social order of things. We believe that the standard of living will be raised and that happier homes will result. Scientific knowledge of how to live properly, when the boys and girls are taken in hand young, is bound to work great reforms for the better in the homes of the future.
